

COVID-19 Working and Learning Online

Protecting Against COVID-19

Many high-speed internet companies are working to help keep Ohioans connected to high-speed internet so they can continue working and learning from home during the COVID-19 outbreak.

These high-speed internet providers have signed on to the “Keep Americans Connected” pledge through the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). These providers commit to not terminating service to any residential or small business customer for failure to pay during the pandemic. They are also waiving late fees for these customers and opening their Wi-Fi hotspots around the state to anyone who needs them.

Ohio is grateful to these companies for being positive members of our community as Ohioans take the necessary steps to slow the spread of COVID-19.

BroadbandOhio, the state’s office dedicated to improving access to high-speed internet, has been working with providers to find public hotspot locations that Ohioans can use in areas where they may not otherwise have access to internet from home. Providers not currently listed that are offering public wi-fi hotspots are encouraged to email together@governor.ohio.gov with contact information, and a representative from BroadbandOhio will follow-up.
