RE: Recall Announcement (ODA/ODH) 2018-96a

LL'S Magnetic Clay Inc. Expands Allergy Alert On Undeclared Allergens In Prescript-Assist Dietary Supplement To All Lots

LL's Magnetic Clay, Inc. of Austin, Texas is recalling all lots of Prescript-Assist (still within expiration date), a dietary supplement it marketed until late 2017, because of its potential to contain undeclared allergens, including almonds, crustaceans, milk, casein, eggs, and peanuts. People who have an allergy or severe sensitivity to these specific types of allergens run the risk of serious or life-threatening allergic reaction if they consume these products.

Prescript-Assist dietary supplement was distributed nationwide, including through online sales on the LL's Magnetic Clay website and brick and mortar retailers. The Prescript-Assist product is available through distributors other than LL's Magnetic Clay that purchased the product from the same source.

All lots sold between 1/29/2015 – 12/31/2017 are potentially impacted. The white bottles contain capsules in quantities of either 60 or 90 capsules per bottle. A representative label is included below.

No illnesses regarding these products have been reported to date.

The recall was initiated after potential cGMP failures in the supply chain were identified by LL's Magnetic Clay.

Consumers who have purchased Prescript Assist from LL's Magnetic Clay are urged to discontinue use and return it to LL's Magnetic Clay for a full refund. Consumers with questions may contact the company M-F, 9am-5pm at 1-800-257-3315.
